AUTHORITY AND REFERENCE (pursuant to GOV § 11346.5(a)(2) and 1 CCR § 14)

Authority cited: Sections 4551, 4553, and 4562, Public Resources Code.

INFORMATIVE DIGEST/POLICY STATEMENT OVERVIEW (pursuant to GOV 11346.5(a)(3)(A)-(D))

Pursuant to the Z'berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973, PRC § 4511, et seq. (FPA) the State Board of Forestry and Fire Protection (Board) is authorized to construct a system of forest practice regulations applicable to timber management on state and private timberlands.

PRC § 4551 requires the Board to "...adopt district forest practice rules... to ensure the continuous growing and harvesting of commercial forest tree species and to protect the soil, air, fish, wildlife, and water resources..." of the state and PRC § 4553 requires the Board to continuously review the rules in consultation with other interests and make appropriate revisions.

In 1977 the California Coastal Commission designated specified "Coastal Commission Special Treatment Areas" for "identifiable and geographically bounded forest areas that constitute a significant wildlife or plant habitat area, an area of special scenic significance, and any land where timber operations could adversely affect public recreation areas or the biological productivity of any wetland, estuary, or stream that is especially valuable because of its role in a coastal ecosystem". In 1979, the Board adopted regulation that specified different timberland management requirements within Coastal Commission Special Treatment Areas to preserve the natural and scenic resources responsible for an area's Special Treatment Area designation.

In the intervening decades the climate has grown warmer and drier, and forest fires have become larger and more destructive, even in coastal areas that previously did not experience high-intensity wildfires. In addition, several regulatory pathways have been introduced to combine timber harvest with additional ecological protections. There have also been advances in silviculture that increase the survival of seedlings in forest habitats.

The problem is that regulations concerning timber harvest in Coastal Commission Special Treatment Areas do not account for the changing climate and fire hazard levels, advances in silviculture, and new regulatory pathways that limit the environmental impacts of timber management.

The purpose of the proposed action is to update regulations to reflect existing regulatory standards based on best scientific knowledge and management approaches.

The effect of the proposed action is Forest Practice Rules for Coastal Commission Special Treatment Areas that conform to the existing framework for timber harvest while considering the natural and scenic resources that led to the designation of those areas as Special Treatment Areas.

The benefit of the proposed action is broader options for forest resiliency and management while still maintaining the ecological and aesthetic values that led to the designation of Coastal Commission Special Treatment Areas and consistency in application of the Forest Practice Rules.

There is no comparable Federal regulation or statute.

Board staff conducted an evaluation on whether the proposed action is inconsistent or incompatible with existing State regulations pursuant to GOV § 11346.5(a)(3)(D). State regulations related to the proposed action were, in fact, relied upon in the development of the proposed action to ensure the consistency and compatibility of the proposed action with existing State regulations. Otherwise, Board staff evaluated the balance of existing State regulations related to watercourse protection during timber operations within State regulations that met the same purpose as the proposed action. Based on this evaluation and effort, the Board has determined that the proposed regulations are neither inconsistent nor incompatible with existing State regulations. The proposed regulation is entirely consistent and compatible with existing Board rules.

Statute to which the proposed action was compared: Chapter 8, Part 2, Division 4, Public Resources Code.

Regulations to which the proposed action was compared: Article 4, Subchapters 4, 5, & 6, Chapter 4, Division 1.5, Title 14, California Code of Regulations.
