Keith Gilliss

Chair, Board of Forestry & Fire Protection

Dear Chair Gilliss,

I would like to express sincere interest to serve a second appointment as a California Range Management Advisory Committee member.

I have over a decade of professional experience in the fields of restoration ecology and fire hazard prevention using targeted grazing with small ruminants in both Northern and Southern California. As a Southern California native from the suburbs and a first-generation agrarian, I represent a growing population of new land management practitioners and agricultural entrepreneurs.

As the Owner Operator of Shepherdess Land and Livestock Co., I provide targeted grazing services, training, and consultation for the development and implementation of targeted grazing programs at various scales. We are based out of the Upper Ojai Valley in Ventura County, severely impacted by the Thomas Fire in 2017/18.

In collaboration with the Ojai Valley Fire Safe Council, I am co-directing the development of the Ojai Valley Community Supported Grazing Program, which is a transferable framework for comprehensive fire safety and ecological resilience that engages the public and community stakeholder.

I am encouraged by the great interest from the public and various collaborators for increased participation in impactful, at-scale efforts for greater fire safe communities and ecologically resilient landscapes. RMAC has supported growing awareness of the various tools and opportunities available to do this imperative work. I would be honored to contribute to RMAC's efforts in years to come representing my unique demographic and region in Southern California.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Brittany “Cole” Bush

Bio

Brittany Cole Bush, AKA Cole is an entrepreneur, educator, and practitioner in the fields of climate beneficial agriculture, land stewardship, and targeted grazing based out of Southern California. As a first generation agrarian and field professional in natural resource management, she has over a decade experience supporting landowners and public agencies to develop and implement targeted grazing programs for fire fuels reduction, ecological restoration, and vegetation management. In addition, Cole is the Co-Director of the Ojai Valley Community Supported Grazing Program, an initiative of the Ojai Valley Fire Safe Council working to increase fire safety and ecological resilience at watershed scale while working closely with regional small ruminant producers in Southern California to support the growing industry of prescribed herbivory at the Wildland Urban Interface.
